

Dear All,

Welcome to Februarys CSMD Newsletter. Unfortunately last month we did not have time to publish a newsletter so we apologise for that. However a new year is now upon us and quite a few changes to our software more of which will become apparent through this newsletter. We have an update to release for CSMD Advanced and are working on a new version CSMD 2.0. So read on to find out more.

CSMD 2.0:

CSMD 2.0 is in the early stages of development at the moment but we hope to release it mid 2008. It will differ from the current version in a number of ways. The most apparent will be that there will be one playlist which you would load for a show, but then multiple play out devices, so instead of just being able to mix 2 tracks together, you will be able to mix up to 10 together at once. We are hoping that you will be able to link tracks to one another so that you can setup more elaborate mixes. However to make sure we get the most out of the system we would like some feedback from our customers. In the next few weeks we intend to launch an online questionnaire to find out what you like and dislike in CSMD at the moment and what you would like to see in future versions. There will be a prize draw associated with this and associated offers that will be announced closer to the time. Still if before this you would like to get in touch then please email sales@csmd.co.uk with your ideas. We already have quite a few that we are gathering from customers. At the left you can see a first screenshot of the new system. Please bare in mind this is in a very basic form at the moment.

CSMD 1.15 Beta:

Currently a number of customers are testing CSMD 1.15 Beta. This version includes a number of tweaks to make CSMD run more smoothly and in some cases faster. It should be on general release soon, along with a full list of the adjustments that have been made. This also co-insides with the second stage of our re-branding process. We will be making sure over the next week that all our manuals have the correct new style branding. This will help complete our re-branding and give customers a feel of continuity between our website, documentation and products.

Well that's the end of another newsletter. We will try and make sure that future newsletters keep you up to date with the developments in CSMD 2.0 and any updates of older products. If you have any questions then please don't hesitate to get in touch with the team via the website.

Until next time,

All the best.
