December 2006 News Letter

Dear All,

Hi Everyone, Welcome to our Christmassy News Letter. Once again we have lots to tell you about including our amazing December Offer, so read on to find out more. November has been a bumper month in terms of sales, and the work we have been doing. We managed to release our beta software which had numerous updates to make running any show even smoother, we also started work on a new beta version which we have some details of below.

Latest News:

As you may already have seen this last month we have rolled out our latest version of the software. This had been in a beta format for a while and numerous users tested it successfully, and pointed out a number of little things that we hadn't noticed. In the last week of November we released the latest version and it is now available for all to download. This version included the addition of hot keys, discussed in the previous news letter and also included updates in other areas which we felt were important. One area was the faders for each side of the desk. These were updated to work more smoothly with the Auto-fade and also so that users could fade using a scroll wheel on their mouse. So if you haven't got the latest version then please visit the website <http://www.csmd.co.uk> and download the latest version free of charge. Remember to read the updating CSMD document found in our downloads section first.

New Add Track Dialog with Fade Settings

Also during November we started work on our next Beta Version. The main feature of this was something that a number of users had asked for. As we all know the Auto-fade feature is great, but wouldn't it be even better if you could set up the fades when you create the playlists and they are stored in the system. Well in this latest version you will be able to. You can setup the fade in, and the fade out. The user still will need to trigger the fades but they will be stored on the system so you won't need to keep fiddling on setting them each time you want to play the track. Screenshot on the right shows the new Add Track dialog box.

The inclusion of this and the hot keys last month continues to make CSMD a strong solid product that is easy to use by all levels of sound engineer. We hope over the next year to keep adding new features and updating old ones, but most importantly we want to make sure the system works for you, so let us know your thoughts of what you would like to see?

Podcast Ideas:

Over the past year Podcasting has become a big thing. Not only do large broadcasting organisation such as the BBC produce these podcasts but they have become part of people every day life where podcasters create their own podcasts. We believe CSMD has potential to be used as a mini podcast studio. Although currently CSMD does not support Microphone input we are investigating if this is possible. As soon as we know and have some working demos we will let you know. So watch this space.

Pictures of your setup or you using our software?

The other week a few of us were chatting over lunch and looking at some photos, this made us think how it would be nice and a good laugh to see some of our customers using our software. So if you have any pics, no matter how silly or serious of you using CSMD then we would love to see them, if we get a few we might even consider setting up a gallery of users. Email your photos to james.proctor@wjps.co.uk with a little description explaining the picture, if it isn't already self explanatory. Just to get you going here is a picture of the setup we had in the early days while testing the software before its release.

Downloads:

Please don't forget that you can download our free demo software from the website at any time. Why not tell your friends about it, they might find it just as useful as you do. Were so confident that you will like our software that our demo is fully operational, expect it is time-limited to 15 minutes. We feel this give you an opportunity to explore the software fully, and try out all of the great features.
